DETAILED ACTION

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

The abstract should not repeat the claims.

Claim Objections

Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities:

Claim 2, line 2 and line 6 says "the a"

In line 2, "the" should be deleted.

In line 6, "a" should be deleted.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 and 6-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Marrin et al. [US. 5,808,613].

As to claims 1, 6 and 9, Marrin et al. disclose converting information obtained from a uniform resource locator into at least one texture (column 14, lines 8-45); and mapping the at least one texture on a geometric surface which forms the three-dimensional navigation mechanism (column 3, lines 46-67).

As to claim 2, Marrin et al. also discloses interacting with an image created from the uniform resource locator on the geometric surface in the virtual three-dimensional space and intercepting at least one event associated with an image created from information obtained from the uniform resource locator (column 14, lines 30-48); locating the geometric surface in the virtual three-dimensional space associated with the at least one event (column 4, lines 1-18); computing a position of the geometric surface on the three dimensional object in the virtual three-dimensional space (column 6, lines 8-35).

Art Unit: 2174

As to claim 3, Marrin et al. teaches placing an event driven result on the geometric surface of the three-dimensional object (column 4, lines 1-35).

As to claims 4, 8 and 10, Marrin et al. also teaches a three dimensional pipeline is used in converting information obtained from the at least one uniform resource locator (column 14, lines 1-45).

As to claims 7 and 11, the claim is analyzed as previously discussed with respect to claims 2 and 3

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5 ^{is} are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Marrin et al. in view of Bardon et al. [US. 6,081,271].

As to claim 5, the difference between Marrin et al. and the claim is transforming a two-dimensional navigation mechanism to a three dimensional navigation mechanism. Bardon et al. shows the feature at column 4, lines 30-48. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, having the teachings of Marrin et al. and Bardon et al. before them at the time the invention was made to modify the method of navigating a virtual three-dimensional space taught by Marrin et al. to include the navigating two-dimensional space of Bardon et al., in order to allow the operating systems recognizing the position of the surface on the three dimensional object as taught by Bardon et al.
